LIVING AT KU

New halls transform DAISY HILL

KU
STUDENT HOUSING
The University of Kansas
I'm proud to call this place my home.
CONTRACT

Sign your housing contract after you’re admitted—the sooner the better.

September 1
After you’re admitted and have your KU ID number and KU online ID, go to housing.ku.edu. Follow the instructions to sign a housing contract so you may be first in line to choose a room in the spring. Once you’ve signed a contract, you also may submit additional materials to apply for a scholarship hall. Scholarship halls involve a competitive selection based on academic merit and financial need.

November 1
Student Housing begins reviewing scholarship hall applications and making offers the last week of each month. Offers are sent throughout spring.

February
Returning residents are first in line to select room and roommates.

March 1 – Scholarship Halls
Scholarship hall application initial deadline. If you don’t receive a fall offer you can be considered in spring.

March – Residence Halls
New residents begin selecting rooms and roommates online. You may choose roommates or go potluck. If you have preferred roommates, all must sign housing contracts before selecting the room.

---

VISIT
housing.ku.edu for instructions to sign an online contract. As with all contracts, cancellation fees will apply.

High School Juniors
In August, before your senior year in high school, visit the housing website.
- Begin making decisions about room type and cost.
- Plan to sign your contract as soon as you’re admitted. That puts you among the first to choose a room.

Your options
- Private room, semi-private bath
- Residence hall double rooms, community bath
- Suites with semi-private baths
- Scholarship halls
IN-HOUSE RESOURCES

• Study areas are in every building. Classrooms are featured in Daisy Hill Commons, and GSP and Templin residence halls. Academic advisors, Writing Center instructors, and supplemental instruction are available where you live.

• Housing staff are among those who teach University 101. This two-credit seminar provides an important foundation for academic success.

• Learning communities allow students to live and learn with others who share academic interests: firstyear.ku.edu/communities.

• Wireless Internet (25 megabits per second and up to four devices) is included in the housing rate. Upgrade speed and number of devices for additional cost: myresnet.com.

—VOICES OF EXPERIENCE—
I love having people nearby so you can ask questions and study together.
On-campus residents get personal attention and make better grades than other students

Grade-point average
• Nearly 10 percent of on-campus residents earned a 4.0 GPA in 2014.
• On-campus residents successfully complete courses at about a 10 percent higher rate.

Support
Students who live on campus participate in Student Housing’s residential curriculum. It focuses on social responsibility and uses personalized interventions to help residents succeed. For example: Housing staff will contact a resident who regularly skips classes or fails to enroll for the next term. Current residents report in surveys that they feel “cared for” and “have a social support network” provided by student housing staff.

Through the residential curriculum, which also reflects KU’s academic mission, students will learn academic success skills, good decision-making about drugs and alcohol, self-advocacy, communication through conflict, living in a diverse community, and involvement and connection at KU.

What do students get?
• Help from RAs with one-on-one academic planning and time management.
• RAs conduct “check-ins” with residents throughout the semester to help residents reach their goals.
• Roommate agreements that establish expectations for living together.
• Information focusing on social responsibility on bulletin boards, print media and social media.
• Activities that provide the chance to hang out and meet other residents.

#livelearnku
Your RA will invite everyone on your floor to Rock-A-Hawk, KU Student Housing’s annual welcome event.

- Accessible parking
—VOICES OF EXPERIENCE—

I absolutely love being so close to all of my classes and the libraries. It is very conducive to a study environment.
The “scholarship” is a lower housing rate because everyone helps with cooking and other chores

You’d be a great fit for a scholarship hall if:

- You’re a first-generation college student and diversity, collaboration, and a small community are important to you.
- You take your college success seriously and welcome “student success” meetings to plan your academic program with graduate student mentors.
- You see yourself as a future KU campus leader.
- You’re looking for creative ways to fund your college living expenses.

A scholarship is not required to live in this tradition-filled community. It’s conveniently located on the main campus. And it’s such a close-knit community that many students live here for four years.

Crawford Community Center, 1346 Louisiana, serves as a meeting place for all 12 scholarship halls.

INDEPENDENCE

After your first year, stay on-campus in an apartment for privacy, convenience and location.

On-campus apartment
After you finish your freshman year, choose an on-campus apartment. As a returning resident, you’ll have first choice. On-campus apartments are so popular that KU’s master plan includes a new complex near 19th and Iowa Streets, which is expected to be completed in 2017.

Advantages include
- Greater privacy and independence
- On-site staff
- Wireless Internet
- KU Card-operated laundry
- Optional dining plans and rental furniture packages

@KUAPL

On-campus housing promotes SOCIAL responsibility

Bedroom in Jayhawker Towers apartment.
Mrs. E’s overlooks the beautiful KU campus. Your housing contract takes care of your combined housing and dining needs.
EAT

Students tell us that many college memories are made during mealtimes in their dining centers.

You’ll enjoy made-to-order pasta with friends, studying for finals over coffee, or refueling with pizza and snacks between classes. Rely on our executive chef, our expert dining staff, and your KU Card to provide you with a world of dining possibilities across KU. Learn more at union.ku.edu/dining.

Residence hall students may choose from three dining centers, one in Oliver Hall, Mrs. E’s in Lewis Hall, or North College Cafe in GSP Hall. Daisy Hill features The Studio coffee shop in Hashinger and now offers Jayhawk Grocer, located in the north end of Al and Lila Self Residence Hall.

Dining Services accommodates your special dietary needs and food allergies. For assistance, call the registered and licensed dietitian, 785-864-2424.
Daisy Hill Commons, a new academic service center that includes study and classrooms, is open to all residence hall students.
ADVANTAGES

Live on campus so you can focus on school (while we handle other important details)

On campus

One convenient bill. The charge appears on your KU e-bill each semester. Your housing contract includes dining.

Affordability. KU residence hall rates are nearly $2,000 less per year than the national average for public schools, according to the College Board.

Convenient contracts. If you graduate mid-year or Study Abroad, for instance, we’ll adjust your contract.

Events and activities. We’ll help you get connected and engaged in the life of the university.

Options. The options (traditional rooms, suites, scholarship halls, apartments) allow you to increase your independence during your four-year college career without losing conveniences, including dining plans, and community.

Location, location, location. On-campus housing features a variety of study spaces and the technology you need for individual and group work.

Smaller carbon footprint. Living cooperatively is ecologically sustainable. You don’t need a car — you can bike, walk or take a bus to class.

A green environment. Student Housing and KU Dining reuse, reduce and recycle. We buy energy-saving appliances and equipment, energy-efficient windows, furniture made from post-consumer materials, and sustainable wood products.

Off campus

Separate bills for gas, electricity, water, cable and Internet.

Security deposits for rent and utilities.

Grocery shopping, cooking and cleaning.

Needing a car and parking pass to get to class and library.

$5,000 more each year to live off campus.

—VOICES OF EXPERIENCE—

I’m able to meet people from all over the world and experience life with them.
